Memorial Pollinator Garden Blooms at Library

The Friends of Union County Library recently received a bequest from the estate of Medora Mackinnon (FOUCL member and past treasurer). FOUCL was able to use some of that bequest to provide the funds for Towns-Union Master Gardeners to create a memorial pollinator garden at Union County Public Library, in the median with the flag.

The Master Gardeners were able to install gorgeous blooming plants, a birdhouse, a shallow watering basin for thirsty pollinators, and a beehouse in this small plot. The new garden was included as part of the pollinator census on August 22 and 23 and will also be designated as part of the Rosalynn Carter Butterfly Trail.

Just inside the library's entrance is a map of the pollinator garden, listing each type of plant and showing where it is located. Next time you are at Union County Public Library, stop by to take a closer look. Thanks to Medora Mackinnon, FOUCL, and Master Gardeners for a great addition to the library grounds!
